Here are two options for your consideration re: social media notification. The wording is modeled from the Chair of Ottawa's Police Board account. We can change out what is highlighted in red if you think it's too strong.

Option 1: WPS Board tweet only

a) A brief in-camera Special Meeting of the Windsor Police Services Board has been called for 7:00 p.m. today.
b) A brief in-camera Special Meeting of the Windsor Police Services Board has been called for 7:00 p.m. today to specially discuss the Service's ability to provide adequate and effective policing to the residents of Windsor & Amherstburg.

Option 2: You can tweet this from your account and I can RT

I spoke with Dave just now and he is recommending the following:

1. We can provide public notice of our meeting by way of a tweet (the Ottawa Board did the same). This would fulfil the required notice recommendation.
2. That he be invited to the meeting as an observer so he/the Province can have line of sight on anything that they may need to be aware of/action at the request of the Board. He did say that the Advisor was in attendance at the Ottawa Board meeting as well.

Let me know if you are ok with a similar tweet for the meeting and also if Dave can attend via Zoom.

One question -

Last time we had a special meeting Dave Tilley indicated that even though it's in camera we are required to provide some public notification. Given the sensitive nature of this I thought that I would check in about the best way to do this.

Usually (for normally scheduled meetings) it's an email to media/Senior WPS staff as well as a tweet indicating that the Board will be meeting.

Thoughts on best approach for notification?
